Hey Mark,
Good to hear from you. I'll try to catch you this weekend, when I have a cell connection.

1. The language they can use is non-invasive radio frequency assisted lipolysis or lipoplasty, which ever they prefer. They can say it aids in wrinkle reduction as well. We prefer they not use the name Lipotron until after approval. I'll let you know any changes as soon as I know.

2. I don't think we want to let anyone see any of the previous study info because it was not as scientific as we (Americans) expect. If I find something useful of course I will pass it along.

3. I know that Restore had trouble with the CET body hand piece today. Please send it back to Reveco and I'll have another one sent to you. I left the fedex number and address on Sommer's cell. Please send it ground and not expedited.

' . Thanks for all your perseverance and hard work.

5. Any idea when the 3 you have sold will be available to train? Maybe the last week of Oct/first of Nov???

6. Whitney called yesterday and left a message for me. She said she would know about her financing in the next 2 days, and would let me know in the next 2 days. She said she is working very hard to get the financing. (Don't worry about me, I've exhaled!)

Talk soon,
Paige

Thank you Paige. This is helpful. The only other thing I need is to see what language we as a distributor can say about the Lipotron technology so we can market Investigational test sites. And the doctors want to know what language they can use to market this device to bring people into their clinic prior to the FDA clearance. If you could get this for me at the earlier part of next week, I have a couple of people waiting to initiate thier orders based on this information. Thanks.
